

“SOCORRO: The Launch of the Official Research Journal at Our Lady of Perpetual Succor College”

Written by Sydney Wallace M. Ang, Edited by: Portia Elize S. Oñate (03/20/25)

As the saying goes, “Knowledge is power”—a principle that emphasizes the significance of research in shaping intellectual growth and scholarly influence. Throughout history, humanity’s relentless pursuit of change and innovation has demonstrated that research is a driving force behind advancements and provides solutions to numerous challenges. Given its profound impact across diverse fields, systems, and products, esteemed academic institutions— nationally and internationally—have prioritized the collection and dissemination of significant research papers. In this context, OLOPSC has recognized the importance of this endeavor and is excited to announce the publication of its inaugural research journal.

To this end, OLOPSC SOCORRO provides students and teachers with a structured platform to publish their academic research in alignment with these values. The journal is accredited by the National Library of the Philippines through a rigorous peer review process, ensuring that the published studies maintain high professional research standards. This commitment not only strengthens research methodologies but also fosters collaborative relationships among Philippine institutions, thus enhancing the domestic scholarship’s influence in worldwide academic circles. Furthermore, SOCORRO supports the development of researchers’ advanced analytical skills and promotes interdisciplinary collaboration. It upholds a thorough publication procedure that complies with international research requirements, preserving OLOPSC’s academic reputation.

The integrity of academic standards is upheld by established peer reviewers and editorial board members, guaranteeing that all published work demonstrates intellectual rigor. In this manner, SOCORRO cultivates a research environment focused on depth, originality, and robust academic dialogue. Through its initiatives, researchers from local projects can forge crucial connections with the global scholarly community. SOCORRO extends its international reach by forming organized partnerships with foreign academic institutions, participating in conferences, and adhering to internationally accepted research protocols. This journal provides vital platforms for OLOPSC researchers to share their work with broader audiences, enhancing the institution’s international academic standing.

In essence, SOCORRO acts not only as an academic repository but also as a catalyst for stimulating intellectual development among OLOPSC researchers. By fostering strong academic research practices and collaborative initiatives, the journal allows the institution to uphold its unwavering dedication to excellence in education and research. Through SOCORRO, OLOPSC continues to advance its scholarly mission, serving as a key indicator of progress by equipping students and faculty with the education and skills necessary to make impactful academic contributions.